Winterfest

Join us for a time of renewal

7 PM at the UUC social hall on Saturday, January 19th.

The idea is to get together to renew old friendships, form new ones, share ideas and experiences, and get ready for another year of expanding the free community. Such activities require the supplementation of suitable food and drink (BYOAB) to get the juices flowing. All group members are invited. All we ask is for everyone to bring their best pot luck specialties. A - F bring salad, G - L bring veggie or starch side dish, M - R bring main dish, S - Z bring dessert.

What ever you make or bring should provide portions for at least 8 people.

You are invited to share our communal cuisine, and the good friendship of like minded people. To let us know what treat you plan to contribute; call Mark at (727) 733-7855.

Austerity: Intimations of a New Way of Life.

Lessons from the newly manufactured Greek Tragedy...
Discussion led by: Mihalis Halkides, Ph.D., & Marios Psomas

All of us face multiple systemic challenges and crises with potentially detrimental impact for our lives. These challenges cannot be analyzed outside their context--today's global relations and their consequences.

We witness on a daily basis the results of the economic crises of the capitalist financial system; production, distribution, and consumption controls over limited resources; population issues; worldwide climate change, and so on. As these crises hit closer to home, we are compelled to make sense of them. No longer can we afford to claim that it's "all Greek to us."

The 'Imposed Austerity' and 'Forced Privatizations' felt harshly across Europe nowadays, from Greece to Spain, Italy, and beyond, are the start of a tsunami that will be felt worldwide, with dire consequences. What are the possibilities for progressive change? what is the context of such a change? what can we learn beyond the Greek and southern European situation?

As human beings, we are everywhere clever and capable, and moreover we have stored a vast reserve of knowledge and experience that may be used in rejecting the present regime, and creating a good way of life.

Though our curiosity may be powerful, we cannot peer reliably more than a few years into the future. Uncertainty builds the further we try to ascertain the fate of our species. But for this immediate future, which is ours to create, we have living examples of what others have experienced and how they have responded. We are fortunate to have two observers who are quite familiar with the situation in Greece, being Greek themselves. As they speak and read Greek fluently, they have heard many perspectives and analyses from Greek commentators, scientists, and politicians, as well as many citizens. Their conclusions will be highly useful to us. For more on our subject, see Page 6.

Don't forget!

January is dues renewal month. See page 5 for the form. Note that by contributing at the $35-40 level you are eligible to receive a handsome "Happy Humanist" Lapel pin. Wear it with pride, as it identifies you as a proud member of an organized movement of people who think for themselves. Your contributions will allow us to open opportunities for others to discover the difference organized humanism makes in the tenor and quality of life*. For those who think it important to help Humanism become the living philosophy of the majority, here is an opportunity to join with us and build a foundation for a new way of being human.

(* And if you like to help the tenor, " you might feel good helping the soprano too!)

James Randi is one of the world's most accomplished stage magicians. His mind-numbing feats of legerdemain have been witnessed by millions of people. He has used his fame as a platform to champion the cause of reason and critical thinking. The James Randi Educational Foundation was founded in 1996 to help people defend themselves from paranormal and pseudoscientific claims. The JREF offers a still-unclaimed million-dollar reward for anyone who can produce evidence of paranormal abilities under controlled conditions. Through scholarships, workshops, and innovative resources for educators, the JREF works to inspire this investigative spirit in a new generation of critical thinkers.

We need your help to create a world where everyone has access to the tools of science and critical thinking, and charlatans can't get rich by deceiving people. You can make a difference by becoming a member, taking action with us to stop paranormal and pseudoscientific frauds, or joining us at the Amazing Meeting, the world's premier gathering of skeptical thinkers.

Humanists work to build a world in which happiness is the enduring criterion of social policy.

What is the Humanist Way?

1. To extend a human centered approach to the critical problems of life and society.
2. To encourage attitudes of kindness, compassion, tolerance and a loving generosity in human relationships, and in our treatment of all life. These attitudes help us to see ourselves in the lives of others and encourage appreciation for the remarkable diversity of human culture and experience.
3. To develop and popularize the skills of creative and critical thinking that empower people to challenge prejudice, superstition and irrationality in every area of life. Such empowerment enables the individual to reach the highest levels of achievement.
4. To exalt those artistic and imaginative expressions of life which have been the source of the greatest pleasure and enlightenment, and which reflect compelling human truths. Through music, literature, art, dance, and other expressions, we embrace the essence of what it means to be human.
5. To explore the grounds of ethics and morality within the unfolding history of our evolving culture. Such knowledge will enable us to become effective protagonists for the happiness of the individual person. JP

As a senior citizen was driving down the freeway, his car phone rang. Answering, he heard his wife's voice urgently warning him, 'Ernie, I just heard on the news that there's a car going the wrong way on Interstate 77. Please be careful!'

'Heck,' said Ernie, 'It's not just one car. It's hundreds of 'em!'

The reason Politicians try so hard to get re-elected is that they would "hate" to have to make a living under the laws they've passed.

Because they had no reservations at a busy restaurant, my elderly neighbor and his wife were told there would be a 45-minute wait for a table.

"Young man, we're both 90 years old," the husband said. "We may not have 45 minutes."

They were seated immediately.

Three friends their ends. "When you're in your casket, and friends and family members are mourning over you, what would you like them to say?"

Artie said, "I would like them to say I was a wonderful husband, a fine leader, and a great family man."

Eugene commented, "I would like them to say I was a wonderful teacher who made a huge difference in people's lives."

Al said, "I'd like them to say, 'Look, he's moving!'"

John was on his deathbed and gasped pitifully, "Give me one last request, dear," he said. "Of course, John," his wife said softly. "Six months after I die," he said, "I want you to marry Bob."

"But I thought you hated Bob," she said..

With his last breath John said, "I do!"

How you can Help

I hope these general notes are helpful.

Contribute to the welfare of our own local chapter by leading efforts to bridge gaps, bring tolerance and social unity, and exercise kindness everywhere. A little financial help is always appreciated as well. Start by renewing your membership!

At a recent board meeting, we made plans to participate with an information table at a major public event in the coming year.

We are putting together a Speakers Bureau for outreach. You can help in many ways.

And we need help in setting up our meetings: chairs, electronic components when needed, literature and food collection tables. See a Board member to offer your help. JP

A Humanist Helping Hand

Several members have formed a caring response team to help members of our Humanist family who may need supportive practical help. This is an independent group, not affiliated directly with the Humanist Society. But their efforts are wholly consistent with the Humanist outlook. FLORIDA REPORT

Civil liberties news in the Sunshine State

Dear ACLU supporter,

Over the last two weeks, thousands of Floridians have signed our petition urging Senators Nelson and Rubio to pressure the Department of Homeland Security to end the controversial immigration enforcement program which has led to thousands of deportations from Florida. The fate of the program, known as 287(g), which opens the door to racial profiling and makes communities less safe, could be decided at the beginning of next week.

Groups across the country and in Florida are flooding the White House switchboard with calls for an end to the program. We need your voice: Call the White House today to tell President Obama to end the racial profiling program.

The 287(g) program lets local law enforcement agencies enter into agreements with ICE to enforce federal immigration laws and detain people for deportation, often for minor offenses like traffic violations. The Collier County and Jacksonville Sheriffs' participation in the program has led to the deportation of thousands of individuals, increased the potential for racial profiling, and eroded trust between law enforcement and minority communities here in Florida.

Thousands of you signed the petition we sent to Senators Rubio and Nelson calling for an end to the program when the agreements expire this month, and ACLU leaders delivered 4,500 more signatures to the White House on Thursday. Now, members of organizations across the country are joining together to call on the White House to end the program when the Department of Homeland Security reviews the agreements on the 17th.

Calling takes only a few minutes, and your voice will be echoed by the countless others taking action to end the program. Join the growing chorus of voices calling for an end to the program now.

Thank you for standing with us in defense of liberty.

Humanist Quotes

“Human beings and their actions

Corliss Lamont,

Austerity: American Style

Last year, almost one in four children lived in a family that regularly had difficulty affording sufficient food, according to the US department of agriculture. On the other end of life, 8.3 million people over 60 in 2010 faced the threat of hunger, up 78% from a decade earlier – yet another reason to oppose the proposed fiscal cliff cuts in social security or Medicare.

Hunger and malnutrition lead to a broad array of health problems, ranging from reduced immunity to disease or even organ failure. For children, poor nutrition can severely stunt cognitive development and growth. For adults and seniors, the consequences can include more chronic illnesses and shorter life spans.

Over 20 million Americans live in extreme poverty – with cash incomes as low as $10,000 a year for a family of four. Is it any wonder that the US has the third highest poverty rate out of 30 leading industrial nations?

The problem is exacerbated by decades of economic and political policies that have resulted in a massive shift of national wealth from working people to the corporate boardrooms and the yacht owners. One result: real wage growth for workers has stagnated for 30 years; median household income has steadily fallen since the Wall Street produced economic crash of 2008. Much of the limited job growth since then has been in the lowest wage sectors, primarily food service and retail.

Sadly, the issue remained almost as invisible on the 2012 campaign trail as it was when Michael Harrington shocked the nation in 1962 with his book, The Other America. But it is not a surprise to those who, every day, see the faces of poverty and the suffering of families left behind – even as corporate profits once again soar and the parties and good times are back on Wall Street.

With all the enormous wealth in our nation, we really can do something about poverty – as well as the overall economic morass that continues to plague not just the unemployed, or those working two or three jobs, and flipping hamburgers in Main Street towns and cities from coast to coast.

There is a solution. Everyone deserves a good job at living wages, guaranteed healthcare for all based on patient need, not on ability to pay, and equal access to quality education. And now, with cuts to social security on the table, (2.5 - 6%) and despite the push by some politicians in Washington and many state capitals to enact more austerity programs on already hard-hit communities, there is a simple way to keep anti-poverty programs in place and pay for them.

A modest tax Wall Street on speculation, embodied in HR 6411, authored by Representative Keith Ellison, could generate up to $350 billion every year, an amount that could save over 1.7 million homes from foreclosure, or finance 9 million new jobs at current average wage levels. Or it could fund the food plans of 24 million families of four for a year, or lift all 3.8 million female-headed households out of poverty for nearly a decade. Increasingly, the "Other America" is becoming all of us. It is up to all of us to end our national shame.

Florida Now

<http://www.flnow.org/>

NOW is a multi-issue political organization. NOW's self-defined role has been to initiate change for the benefit of the greatest number of people, to affect the legal and institutional structures of the society in a way that systematically expands the choices and possibilities available to all women. In this way, NOW takes action to bring women, as a class, into the mainstream of society, rather than offering aid to individual women in achieving personal solutions or temporary relief from oppression.

The Florida National Organization for Women (NOW) is in strong opposition to the Personhood Amendment ballot initiative for which the organization Personhood Florida is currently collecting signatures, according to Florida NOW president Donna Slutiak. "This amendment is ridiculous and an insult to women," Slutiak said. "The issue of Personhood would have very far reaching results, and would do more than criminalize abortion; it would also make birth control pills and the IUD illegal in the state of Florida. The amendment states that human life begins at the time when an egg is fertilized, which will also impact in-vitro-fertilization clinics. How would you like your mother's fertilized eggs that are sitting in a clinic freezer to have inheritance rights?"

Do you want to have to go underground to get your birth control pills?" Florida NOW expects all intelligent people to pledge not to sign this initiative, and to vote against it, if by some fluke it does get on the ballot. Personhood is bad for womanhood."

The Tampa Humanist Association is the only AHA Humanist group in Hillsborough County. This is a county of more than 1 million people. If statistical averages are correct, than at least 150,000 of those people do not support conventional institutions of religion. Currently, our roles do not number more than 20. I think we can agree that there is room for growth.

We experienced a major setback with the death of president and cofounder Rob Byrch, but with still enthusiastic members and board, and support from our sister organization, the Humanist Society of the Suncoast, we continue to offer the people of Tampa, a local Humanist option.

For several years now, various leaders of the Freethought community in the bay area have been meeting informally to share experiences, and occasionally to coordinate plans. But recently, changing circumstances have brought additional pressure to cooperate in bringing programs and members services to an expanding movement.

At this point leaders continue to meet, and together with the various boards of directors and committees, try to develop policies that will enable every group to enhance its unique role in serving its members.

There appears to be general agreement on developing several community wide programs over the year that will allow significant speakers to be presented in our area. The costs of these programs will be shared among the organizations proportionally.

Thus substantive and exciting new activities will be offered to the Tampa Bay area that were not possible for most organizations before. We are especially grateful to the national office of the United Coalition of Reason and its director, Fred Edwards. You may recall that UCoR was the major impetus to getting a large number of billboards erected across the nation with such messages as "You can be good without God. Millions are!"

TBCoR is an alliance of groups identified with the freethought / Humanist /Atheist movement.

As this momentum continues to grow, we will keep you informed of developments. JP

TBPCC is an autonomous adjunct to the Humanist Society.

Ours is a challenging path, assailed on one hand by those who dismiss our concerns as groundless or Malthusian and, on the other, by those who believe the situation is hopeless and therefore our efforts are irrelevant. And that's just in the context of the sustainability debate, one in which relatively few politicians, pundits, and the general public are even engaged. Bigger still are the entrenched interests who can and do expend tremendous financial resources and political leverage to keep our society's collective pedal to the fossil fuel metal. (It's hard not to feel chagrin to discover that Rex Tillerson, the CEO of ExxonMobil, made the equivalent of PCI's entire annual budget in just seven days of work last year.) And biggest, of course, are the very systems—food, transport, land use, buildings, economics, education, governance—that fossil fuels have built over many decades, and which cannot be remade quickly or easily.

In the face of such odds, why bother? Because we must. But it's not just that. It's because, rightly or wrongly, I have hope. That hope is based on two things:

1. The still small but rapidly growing movement of individuals and communities building resilience in response to current shocks and preparation for future. These early actors are working to reduce consumption, produce local food and energy, invest in local economies, and preserve local ecosystems.

2. A belief that humans, while lousy at proactively mitigating hardship, are a pretty adaptive species once the proverbial s%#t hits the fan. It's the combination of these that provides a framework of sorts for PCI's own efforts, modeled (ironically enough) on the words of Milton Friedman: "Only a crisis—actual or perceived—produces real change. When the crisis occurs, the actions that are taken depend on the ideas that are lying around. That, I believe, is our basic function: to develop alternatives to existing policies, to keep them alive and available until the politically impossible becomes politically inevitable." Asher Miller

Humanist Books

One Planet One People by Carl Coon $22.

Former Ambassador to Nepal, Carl Coon provides a highly readable overview of the evolution of human society, arguing that the 21st century will witness a crucially important and difficult transition for the human race. Blending the disciplines of anthropology and evolutionary psychology with over thirty years of experience in the diplomatic corps, Coon traces the evolution of the human tendency to divide others into two groups, "us versus them." Today, he argues, we have reached a stage where the whole world must be viewed as "us," if we are to overcome the global challenges we face. Hardcover 149 pp.

The Philosophy of Humanism - Dr. Corliss Lamont $16.95

In a work that is a standard text and reference in the ongoing international discussion around secular humanism, Lamont offers an argument for a philosophy that advocates for happiness in this life rather than hope for an undefined afterlife. Paperback, 371 pages.

The Freedom from Religion Foundation

The history of Western civilization shows us that most social and moral progress has been brought about by persons free from religion. In modern times the first to speak out for prison reform, for humane treatment of the mentally ill, for abolition of capital punishment, for women's right to vote, for death with dignity for the terminally ill, and for the right to choose contraception, sterilization and abortion have been freethinkers, just as they were the first to call for an end to slavery. The Foundation works as an umbrella for those who are free from religion and are committed to the cherished principle of separation of state and church. Learn more here.

Outrageous, inspiring news to wake up your brain.

We know. You're tired.

- You're tired of all the nonsense, myth-mongering, and faulty thinking that parades across your screen every day.
- Tired of explaining the difference between religious freedom and religious privilege... again.
- Tired of talking about the importance of free speech and the reality of evolution... again.
- Tired of always having to defend your nonbelief and skepticism, of always having to explain how you can be good without god and why the world is not about to end... again.

Also, well, you're just tired.

The good news is we get it and we're here to help.

Every day on the CFI blog, Paul Fidalgo brings you The Morning Heresy, a clearinghouse of links you need to stay up to date and motivated about all things having to do with religion and irreligion, science and pseudoscience, and how they all affect our society and our lives. It's the finest daily digest of news relevant to the secular and skeptic community and it will help you wake the hell up and get busy!

Now, not only can you wake up your brain, you can wake up your body, too, with the new Morning Heresy mug!

The quest for a more secular and reality-based society is a long-game. Don't go into battle empty handed. Make sure you bring something to wake you up—a caffeinated beverage and a daily reminder of how important it is that we all push past tired and keep doing what we do.

The Military Association of Atheists and Freethinkers

Nontheistic service members serve honorably throughout the world—always have; always will. However, nontheists are the last unprotected minority. The nontheistic, whether an atheist, humanist, agnostic, freethinker, or other secular minority, have a strong community.

Humanist Families of Greater Tampa

Jennifer Hancock started this organization several years ago. It uniquely serves Humanist families with a variety of wonderful programs throughout the year.

There is a strong emphasis on creative childrearing. Here, you can make connection with other families dealing with the problems of living in a society that is still hostile to an explicitly Humanist Way of life.

Jennifer is author of several books including; The Humanist Handbook, The Humanist Approach to Happiness, and her latest book, The Bully Vaccine (illustration below). - JP
See much more at: www.Jen-Hancock.com

Humanist Families organizes social outings every month. These are opportunities to do something fun, socialize and enjoy each other's company. Sometimes we go to a park, sometimes a museum, sometimes we go swimming. Our group has grown over the past year to the point we now organize Tampa area outings and Manatee/Sarasota area outings every month.

Throughout the year we host parties like Darwin Day in February, World Humanist Day in June, Freethought Day at Disney in October and Carl Sagan Day in November.

Among our spin off groups, is a Parenting Beyond Belief group which gets together to discuss the challenges of raising children without religion. We are on Facebook at: <http://www.facebook.com/groups/HumanistFamiliesTampa/>

Part of my practice as a Humanist is to actively be grateful to the people in my life that make living such a joy. I know that my time here on earth is limited. In the grand scheme things, my actions are insignificant. That doesn't deter me from being the best most ethical person I can be though. Why? Because, even though my actions may not matter in the grand scheme of things, my actions most definitely matter here and now to the people I interact with.

And yes, this is enough for me. My actions do matter to the people I meet. I can either do my best to help make our collective lives easier or I can abandon my responsibilities to existential despair. To me, this gets to the core of why I choose to be a Humanist. I choose to live life fully and to do my best to be my best despite it all.

I am grateful that I am alive. I am grateful for the amazing people I have in my life to love and who love me in return. And I am grateful that I have the opportunity to share my ideas of how to live life fully with you. Have a great Month!

What's Been Going On? Humanists and the Holidays

Now, because I get asked this question a lot, I wanted to share with you how my family is celebrating the holidays. We celebrate them all. I view this time of year as a wonderful opportunity to teach my son comparative religion. We just finished lighting the candles for Hannukah and are preparing for a Christmas/Saturnalia feast. We love learning about different people's and traditions and we have yet to learn about a holiday we haven't liked. So don't stress out about what the right way to celebrate the holidays is. As long as your life is filled with joy and love, you are doing it right. Here is an article I published on prlog about titled What is a Humanist and do they celebrate Christmas. I also devoted this month's Ask a Humanist to the topic: <http://youtu.be/GR-54AmeQT0>

AoF outreach programs can be found at our Meetup site. The next chapter meeting is a pot luck on Jan. 13th at 1:30 4303 S MacDill Avenue, Tampa. The best place to park is in the St Croix's Plaza in the block northeast. Guests should park on the EAST side of the street. Current newsletters are available by writing to: AthAIFLE@aol.com.

Look for exciting new programs and internet webcasts (audio & video) in the offing very soon. Let us know if you wish to participate. We are a resource for those with questions and doubts about the standard religious narrative of life. At the same time, we bring a human centered ethic to bear in serving our fellow human beings as they struggle to overcome the delusional psychology of years of religious conditioning.

As an institution committed to bring the enormously prolific benefits of the atheist proposition to ever larger numbers of our citizens, we desire to enable an enlightened majority of truly free people to turn their intelligence toward the real problems we all must face. AoF has been a leader in the effort to preserve church state separation. We look forward to serving a growing constituency.

Religious Freedom Day

Monday, January 16, 2013, marks the celebration of the birthday of Martin Luther King. However, it also marks the celebration of Religious Freedom Day. This special day honors the Virginia Statute for Religious Freedom passed by the Virginia General Assembly on January 16, 1786. (Thomas Jefferson wrote the law in 1777, and it was introduced to the Assembly in 1779.)

The law defends freedom of thought, freedom of conscience, and the separation of church and state. It was the predecessor to the First Amendment right of religious freedom. It regards religious freedom as a natural right, and maintains that no one may be forced to attend church or to support a place of worship with taxes.

In this day, it is especially important that Americans celebrate this special day. Threats to religious liberty have never been greater. Conservative Christians are attempting to prevent Muslims from building mosques.

In several U.S. states Conservative Christian politicians are attempting to pass laws against Sharia law, even though it poses no threat to the nation. Indeed, the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals recently ruled against Oklahoma's proposed anti-Sharia law, finding that Sharia was no threat to the state. Influential politicians such as Newt Gingrich have led such efforts that discourage the growth of Islam and, at least inadvertently, promote Christianity.

Please join the Institute for Science and Human Values in asking President Obama and your U.S. senators and representatives and local politicians for their support in keeping church and state separate.

CFI & Community Outreach

By Rick O'Keefe

CFI branches and campus affiliates are groups of freethinkers, rationalists, skeptics, secular humanists, atheists, and agnostics who come together for many reasons.

First and foremost, CFI groups offer support, educational programming, and social activities for nonreligious and skeptical people. (Religious people are welcome, too, of course.)

Second, CFI groups are part of the Center for Inquiry's broader educational and outreach initiatives. To this end, CFI groups host numerous local events, discussion groups, lectures, and educational programs relating to CFI's primary research areas: Religion, Ethics, and Society; Paranormal and Pseudoscience Claims; and Medicine and Health.

Third, CFI groups offer nonbelievers and skeptics an opportunity to put their principles into practice by joining with other "reality-based" individuals to bring about positive changes in society. CFI members volunteer within their broader community, participate in local activism campaigns, assist with regional campus outreach, monitor church/state separation issues, advocate for sound science education, and work to promote science and the secular outlook in their state, county, town, and schools.

CFI groups draw upon volunteers and Center for Inquiry Friends and supporters who are enthusiastic about the CFI agenda and wish to take part in our movement. Our members are living proof that there are good, ethical alternatives to religious and paranormal worldviews. If you would like to get involved with CFI's movement defending science, reason, and humanist values, start by becoming a Friend of the Center through this link or by calling 1-800-818-7071. Then, become active at our CFI branch or the CFI campus group at your school.

What is Tampa Bay Skeptics?

Founded in 1988, Tampa Bay Skeptics is a nonprofit educational and scientific organization devoted to the critical examination of paranormal and fringe-science claims, and the dissemination of factual information about such claims. In 2004, TBS became a Special Interest Group of the Center For Inquiry–Tampa Bay.

Particular areas of interest to TBS include UFOs, "psychic" power, astrology, fringe science & medicine, purported miracles and other New Age claims. Our interest in religion is restricted to claims that can be objectively tested and potentially verified, such as "weeping icons" or miraculous healings.

TBS conducts its own investigations, follows the activities of other skeptics groups, monitors the press coverage of the paranormal, and publishes a quarterly newsletter, Tampa Bay Skeptics Report, which is also distributed gratis to members of the press and to many other skeptics groups around the world. TBS also makes its representatives available to local and national media to provide a skeptical voice as a counterweight to the irrationalism and superstition that is increasingly prevalent in the television and print media. We have been instrumental in examining and reporting upon the Tarpon Springs "weeping icon," hypnosis, (in)famous psychics, local astrologers, etc.

TBS does not reject claims out of hand, but rather is committed to objective and critical inquiry. In this vein, we share the philosophy of the Committee for Skeptical Inquiry (CSI) -- publisher of Skeptical Inquirer magazine, an international organization that has nurtured the growth of local skeptics groups (such as ours) all over the world.

Attend the Tampa Bay Skeptics Quarterly Meeting Saturday, December 29, 2012, 11:00 AM
Jan Kaminis Platt Regional Library on 3910 South Manhattan Avenue, Tampa, FL 33611

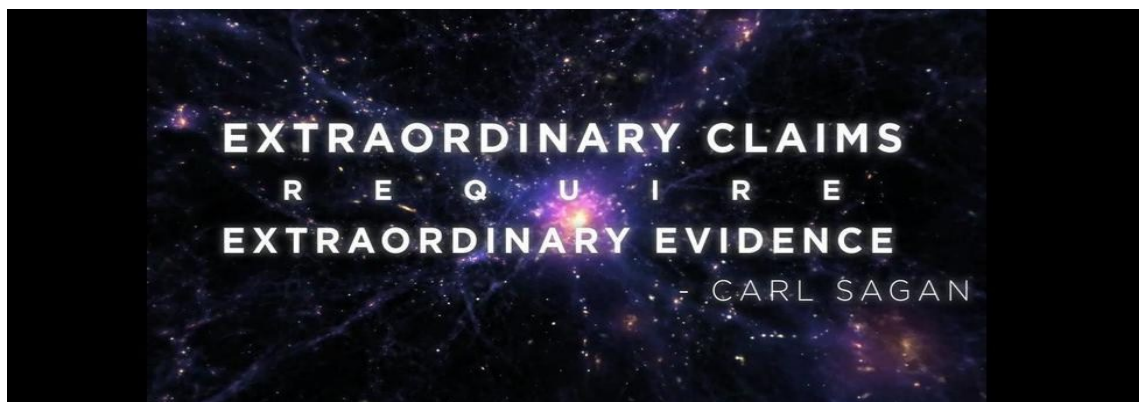

Membership in TBS

We encourage those who wish to help further the cause of skepticism to join TBS! You can take your first step, and make a statement about irrationality and superstition at the same time, by writing a check for $15 to cover your first year's dues. Annual membership includes four issues of Tampa Bay Skeptics Report, each snailmailed to you in advance of our quarterly meetings (last Saturday of every March, June, September, and December). Members also receive a 30% discount on any Prometheus Books purchased through TBS.

Make your $15 check payable to "Tampa Bay Skeptics" and mail to:

Practical Freethought

Thousands of your friends and neighbors in the Tampa Bay area feel the same as you. The Tampa Bay Coalition of Reason is a group of local organizations joined together to increase the growth, visibility and acceptance of nontheists throughout the area.

All of these groups share common ground, while each has its own particular emphasis and atmosphere. Some are focused on scientific inquiry and education. Others are focused on ethics and community, activism or the arts. Others monitor state/church separation and fight for your civil rights. All alike are committed to promoting the wider acceptance of a more rational and contemporary view of humanity and the universe we live in.

TampaBayCoR.org is where secular people in the Tampa Bay area can discover groups to join, activities in which to participate, events to attend and like-minded people with which to socialize. In short, we want to help those who have grown beyond religious belief to find their philosophical home.

Those nonbelievers who are not ready, or who are unable, to “come out” can take comfort in knowing that they are not the only ones who accept the reality of a 100% natural world.

For the religious community, we want them to realize that, although nontheists reject the supernatural, we share with them compassionate human values that most religious believers embrace. In most ways, we are like them; hard working, taxpaying, moral citizens who care deeply about our families, our communities, our state and our country.

Nontheists are a large minority, larger than many minorities having much more political and cultural influence than we do. Based on the US Census Bureau estimate of Florida’s 2008 population and several polls, we estimate our statewide constituency at about 2,800,000 residents (more than 400,000 in the Tampa Bay quad-county area). TampaBayCoR has organized to increase our standing in the marketplace of ideas and to take our rightful place at the table of acceptance and equal rights. We invite all nontheists to support us in our efforts by joining and actively participating in one of TBCoR’s constituent groups.

Even if you never join a group or attend a meeting you can help Florida move forward by contributing to local or national participating organizations. And you can always help to further the nontheistic community just by standing up proudly for your reality-based life among your friends and family. It’s OK to not believe in gods. And, yes—not only can you be good without a god or religion, but in most cases, far better off. Millions of us are. R.O.
